 - Is substantially the same as a question which has been put at a meeting of the Council in the past six months;
 - requires the disclosure of confidential or exempt information.

11.3 Supplementary question

At the discretion of the Chairman of that meeting, questioners may ask one supplementary question

11.4 Answers to questions

The chairman of the meeting, or at meetings of the Council the appropriate committee chairman, shall respond to all questions.

Protocol of Good Practice for Councillors in Dealing with Planning Matters

1.0 Introduction: The Need For Guidance

- 1.1 This Guidance has been written to inform all parties of Mid Devon District Council's standards in its operation of the town and country planning system within the district. The Guidance applies to all Mid Devon District Councillors and staff involved in operating the planning system within Mid Devon
- 1.2 The successful operation of the planning system in Mid Devon depends upon the Council always acting in a way that is seen to be fair and impartial. This relies upon a shared understanding of the respective roles of Councillors and officers, and upon trust between them. The following quotation from the Local Government Association serves to illustrate the point:-

“The role of an elected member on a planning committee involves balancing representing the needs and interests of individual constituents and the community, with the need to maintain an ethic of impartial decision-making on what can be highly controversial proposals. It is this dual role which, can give rise to great tensions”.

(Source: Probity in Planning, Local Government Association, 2002).

- 1.3 The Local Government Association has advised local planning authorities, such as Mid Devon, to set out clearly their practices and procedures on handling planning matters in a local code of good practice. Much of the guidance set out in this document is derived from the Probity in Planning (Update) issued by the Local Government Association in 2002. Councillors and staff should read this Guidance thoroughly and apply it consistently. Failure to do so without good reason could be taken into account in investigating allegations of breaches of the Members and Officers Codes of Conduct or maladministration.

This Guidance does not form part of the Members or Officers Codes of Conduct- it is a local protocol that compliments those Codes. However, there is an expectation that all members and officers who deal with planning matters in Mid Devon will comply with this Guidance and failure to do so could result in a referral to the Standards Committee (members) or disciplinary action (officers)- see paragraph 12

- 1.4 It is intended to review the Guidance regularly to keep it up-to-date and relevant. If there are points which are unclear or which need review, please contact the Head of Legal and Democratic Services (Council’s Monitoring Officer) or the Head of Legal and Democratic Services (Council’s Deputy Monitoring Officer) as soon as possible. They will be pleased to help you.

2.0 General Role and Conduct of Councillors and Officers

- 2.1 Councillors and officers have different, but complementary, roles. Both serve the public but Councillors are responsible to the electorate, while officers are responsible to the Council as a whole. A successful relationship between Councillors and officers can only be based upon mutual trust and understanding of each other’s position. This relationship, and the trust that underpins it, must not be abused or compromised.
- 2.2 Legislation emphasises the overriding requirement that the public are entitled to expect the highest standards of conduct and probity by all persons holding public office. While this Guidance deals primarily with planning applications, its principles apply equally to consideration of Structure Plans, Local Plans, Development Briefs, enforcement cases and all other planning matters.
- 2.3 An overriding principle is that when local authorities are dealing with planning matters, they should take into account only material planning considerations. Section 54A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990 established a plan-led system whereby all planning applications are determined by primary reference to the Development Plan. Thus, if the Development Plan is material to the application, then the statutory requirement is that the application should be determined in accordance with the Development Plan unless material considerations indicate otherwise.
- 2.4 Officers involved in the processing and determination of Planning matters must also act in accordance with the Council’s Procedure Rules, the Officer Code of Conduct and (for officers who are Chartered Town Planners) with the relevant sections of the Royal Town Planning Institute's Code of Professional Conduct. This Guidance supplements the provisions referred to above and provides further specific advice and guidance for Councillors and officers involved in planning matters. A key principle is that Councillors should represent their constituents as a body and vote in the interests of the District as a whole. Councillors should take account of all views expressed; they should not be biased towards any person, company, group or locality.

- 2.5 A further key principle is that local opposition or support for a proposal is not in itself a ground for refusing or granting planning permission, unless that opposition or support is based upon valid planning reasons which can be substantiated.
- 2.6 Councillors and officers should not accept gifts, nor should they accept hospitality. However, it is acknowledged that in certain circumstances the acceptance of a small degree of hospitality, (e.g. receipt of tea, coffee or other light refreshments) may be unavoidable without giving offence.
- 2.7 Officers must always act impartially. They should consider carefully whether any private work or interest that they wish to take up causes an actual or perceived conflict with the Council's interests.
- 2.8 Training will be provided for Councillors to assist them to carry out their planning roles. Only those members who have received training in planning matters will be allowed to sit as members or as substitutes for members on the planning committee.

3.0 Declaration and Registration of Interests

3.1 Councillors

The rules concerning the declaration of interests are contained in the Code Of Conduct. Councillors will need to make themselves familiar with the Code and understand the distinction between personal interests which must be declared but which do not lead to the councillor having to withdraw and prejudicial interests that require withdrawal.

3.2 Officers

Where Council Officers become aware that they have a pecuniary, or non-pecuniary interest, in a planning application or other planning matter, they should declare their interest in writing to the Head of Planning and Regeneration immediately. This written record will then be retained on the relevant file. An officer declaring such an interest should subsequently play no part in processing an application, or considering the planning matter, nor in any decision making on it. In determining whether an interest should be declared, officers should use the same tests as Councillors. Examples of interest that should be declared are relatives or friends submitting applications; belonging to a church, club or other social group who has submitted an application; or living in proximity to a site that is at issue.

4.0 Development Applications Submitted By Councillors, Officers and The Council

- 4.1 Serving Councillors who are members of the planning committee and officers involved with the planning process should never act as agents for individuals (including a company, group or body) pursuing a planning matter. This includes not only pursuing development proposals, but also works under related legislation such as works to protected trees. If Councillors or officers (or close family or friends) submit a planning application to the Council, they should take no part in processing the application, nor take part in the decision-making. The Head of Planning and Regeneration should be informed of all such proposals as soon as they become aware that such an application has been submitted.
- 4.2 Proposals submitted by Councillors and officers should be reported to the Planning Committee as written reports and not dealt with by officers under delegated powers. They should never seek improperly to influence a decision about the matter.
- 4.3 Proposals for the Council's own development (or development involving the Council and another party) should be treated strictly on planning merits and without regard to any financial or other gain that may accrue to the Council if the development is permitted. It is important that the Council is seen to be treating all such applications on an equal footing with all other applications, as well as actually doing so.
- 5.0 Lobbying of and by Councillors, and Attendance at Public Meetings by Officers and Councillors
- 5.1 When Councillors undertake their constituency roles, it is inevitable that they will be subject to lobbying by interested parties and the public on planning matters and specific planning applications. When Councillors are lobbied, they need to exercise great care to maintain the Council's, and their own integrity, and to uphold the public perception of the town and country planning process.
- 5.2 Councillors who find themselves being lobbied (either in person, over the phone, or by post, fax or e-mail) should take active steps to explain that, whilst they can listen to what is said, it would prejudice their impartiality if they expressed a conclusive point of view or any fixed intention to vote one way or another.
- 5.3 Councillors involved in the determination of planning matters should listen to all points of view about planning proposals and are advised to refer persons who require planning or procedural advice to planning officers. Councillors should not indicate conclusive support or opposition to a proposal, or declare their voting intention before the meeting at which a decision is to be taken. Nor should Councillors advise other parties that permission will be granted or refused for a particular development or that land will, or will not, be allocated for development in a Local Plan. To do so without all relevant information and views, would be unfair, prejudicial and could make the decision open to challenge. Taking account of the need to make decisions impartially, Councillors must weigh up all the material considerations reported at each Committee meeting. They should not be biased towards any person, company, group or locality.
- 5.4 By law, the District Council has to seek comments from the Town/Parish Councils on planning applications and other planning matters so that their comments can be taken into account when the District Council makes planning decisions. Some District Councillors are also Town/Parish Councillors and they take part in Town/Parish Council debates about planning applications and other planning matters. Merely taking part in Town/Parish Council debates on planning matters does not automatically debar District Councillors from decision-making at the Planning Committee. However, with few exceptions Town/Parish Councils do not have professional planning advice or complete information on the application and other planning matters when they make their recommendations to the District Council. Therefore, District Councillors who are also Town/Parish Councillors should be careful not to state that they have reached a conclusive decision when they consider planning issues at their Town/Parish Council meeting. Nor should they declare to the Town/Parish Council what their future voting intention will be when the matter is considered at the District Council.

- 5.5 While Councillors involved in making decisions on planning applications will begin to form a view as more information and options become available, a decision can only be taken at the Planning Committee when all available information is to hand and has been considered. Any relevant papers (including letters, photographs, drawings, petitions etc) passed only to Councillors by applicants or objectors prior to a committee meeting should be notified to officers (preferably the case officer) and reported to the Committee.
- 5.6 Individual Councillors should reach their own conclusions on an application or other planning matter rather than follow the lead of another councillor. In this regard, any political group meetings prior to Committee meetings should not be used to decide how Councillors should vote on planning matters. Decisions can only be taken after full consideration of the officers' report and information and discussion at the Committee.
- 5.7 A Planning Committee member who represents a ward affected by an application is in a difficult position if it is a controversial application around which a lot of lobbying takes place. If the councillor responds to lobbying by deciding to go public in support of a particular outcome - or even campaign actively for it - it will be very difficult for that councillor to argue convincingly when the Committee comes to take its decision that he/she has carefully weighed the evidence and arguments presented at Committee. A councillor should avoid organising support for or against a planning application if he or she intends to participate in its determination at Committee. However, it should be possible for a councillor to say that they will make the views of the public known at the Committee whilst themselves waiting until the Committee and hearing all the evidence before making a final decision upon how to vote.
- 5.8 Councillors should not lobby other Councillors on proposals in a way that could lead to their failing to make an impartial judgement on the planning merits of these cases when making decisions at Council Committees. Nor should Councillors put undue pressure on officers for a particular recommendation nor do anything which compromises, or is likely to compromise the impartiality of officers
- 5.9 Officers who are wholly or partly involved in the processing or determination of planning matters should not attend public meetings in connection with pre-application development proposals or submitted planning applications unless their attendance has been agreed by their Head of Service. To do so could lead to allegations of prejudice or bias to a particular point of view. If put in such a position, officers should avoid prejudicing the Committee's decision.

- 5.10 When attending public meetings, Councillors should take great care to maintain their impartial role, listen to all the points of view expressed by the speakers and public and not state a conclusive decision on any pre-application proposals and submitted planning applications.

6.0 Discussions With Applicants

- 6.1 It is generally recognised that discussions between potential applicants or applicants and the Council prior to the submission of an application can be of considerable benefit to both parties. Discussions can take place for a variety of reasons, for example to establish whether an application can be improved in design, or to overcome planning objections or to meet relevant neighbour concerns. Such discussions will normally take place at District Council offices.
- 6.2 Councillors involved in any discussions should maintain an independent position and avoid committing themselves to either supporting or opposing the application at committee. Planning committee members should not attend meetings on major applications in the absence of a planning officer. If a Councillor feels that they are being put under pressure to support or oppose an application they should suggest to the applicant/objector that they put their views to the planning officer. Planning officers should always make clear at the outset of discussions that they cannot bind the Council to make a particular decision, and that any views expressed are their professional opinions only based upon the information available at that time. Advice given by planning officers will aim to be consistent and based upon the Development Plan (Structure and Local Plan) and other material considerations. Senior officers will make every effort to ensure that there are no significant differences of interpretation of planning policies between planning officers.
- 6.3 Planning officers will ensure that their advice and reports, in the sense that they should not favour any particular applicant or objector, are impartial. This is because a consequent report must not be seen as advocacy for a particular point of view. A written note should be made of pre-application discussions and important telephone conversations and placed on the file. Officers will note the involvement of Councillors in such discussions as a written file record. A follow-up letter should be sent, particularly when material has been left with the Council by the applicant or agent for comment.
- 6.4 Councillors who also serve on Town & Parish Councils should make clear their separate roles in each Council regarding Mid Devon District planning policies. The councillor and other interested parties should be clear at all times when the Councillors are acting as a Town or Parish Councillor, and when they are acting in their role as a District Councillor.

7.0 Reports By Officers To Committees

- 7.1 Many planning applications are determined by the Head of Planning and Regeneration. These are the smaller and less controversial applications. Where decisions on applications fall to be made by the Planning Committee they will be the subject of full written reports.

- 7.2 Reports on planning matters aim to be accurate and will contain a description of the development proposed in the application (including dimensions and areas). They will refer to the provisions of the Development Plan and all other planning considerations including a full description of the site, any relevant planning history, and the substance of objections and other views received. All reports requiring a decision will have a written recommendation and will normally be the subject of an oral presentation to committee before the debate begins. Other oral reporting (other than to update an existing report) will only be used on rare occasions and carefully minuted when this does occur. All reports will contain a technical appraisal that clearly justifies the stated recommendation. All reasons for refusal and conditions to be attached to permissions must be clear and unambiguous.
- 7.3 Any additional information which is material to a planning decision, and which is received after publication of agendas, will be reported to the meeting provided that such information is received by the Head of Planning and Regeneration not less than 24 hours prior to the commencement of the committee at which the matter will be considered. Late information will only be reported to Planning Committee at the discretion of the Chairman. Applicants and objectors should be aware that the provision of late information may lead to a matter being deferred to a later committee so the information can be properly assessed by members by incorporating it into the written report.

8.0 The Decision Making Process and Decisions Contrary To Officer Recommendations and/or The Development Plan

- 8.1 The law requires that, where the Development Plan is relevant, planning decisions must be made in accordance with it unless other material considerations indicate otherwise (Section 54A of the Town and Country Planning Act 1990). The relevant Development Plan, and other material considerations, will be identified in officers' reports. Material considerations will vary from case to case. In arriving at a decision, it is a matter of judgement for the Planning Committee as to the weight to be attached to the various material considerations.
- 8.2 In discussing, and determining a planning application or other planning matter, Councillors should confine themselves to the planning merits of the case. The reasons for making a final decision should be clear, convincing and supported by material considerations and the planning merits.
- 8.3 Councillors should consider the advice of the officers but ultimately they are free to vote as they choose. If Councillors wish to determine an application contrary to officer advice, or to impose additional conditions to a permission, an officer should explain the implications of such action. The Councillors' grounds for any contrary determination, or for wishing to impose additional conditions, must be clearly stated at the time the propositions are made and votes taken at the meeting. The personal circumstances of an applicant will rarely provide such grounds.

- 8.4 If a resolution is passed which is contrary to a recommendation of the Head of Planning (whether for approval or refusal) planning reasons should be given. A record of the Committee's reasons will be made, a copy placed on the application file and recorded in the minutes. If the report of the Head of Planning and Regeneration recommends approval of a departure from the Development Plan, the full justification for this recommended departure should be included in the report.
- 8.5 Senior planning officers (and legal officers as necessary) should attend meetings of the Planning Committee to ensure that procedures are properly followed and planning issues properly addressed.
- 8.6 It is important that Councillors who determine planning applications do so only after having considered all material planning considerations. They must take all relevant matters into account and they must disregard irrelevant considerations. It is important that they are seen to do this. For this reason, it is important that Councillors only participate in the debate and vote on a planning application if they have been present throughout the whole of the officers' presentation and the subsequent committee debate. Councillors who arrive at a meeting part-way through consideration of an application or who are absent from the meeting for any part of that consideration may not be aware of all the relevant considerations. In any event, their participation can be seen to be unfair – it could amount to maladministration as well as giving rise to a legal challenge that the decision-making process was flawed.

9.0 Site Visits By Councillors

The need for site visits

- 9.1 It is important for the Planning Committee to have a clear rationale for undertaking organised site visits in connection with planning applications and that any visits are conducted properly and consistently. The purpose of a site visit is for Councillors to gain knowledge of the development proposal, the application site and its surroundings. A decision by a Planning Committee to carry out a site inspection should normally only be taken where the impact of the proposed development is difficult to assess from the plans and any supporting information submitted by the applicant, or additional material provided by officers. Site visits cause delay and additional costs, and should only be carried out where Councillors believe a site visit is necessary to make such an assessment. Reasons should be given for the decision to make a site visit.

Who visits?

- 9.2 Site visits are usually undertaken by the Planning Working Group consisting of the Chair and Vice Chair of the Planning Committee together with 6 members of the Planning Committee. Ward Members, one Parish Council representative, one applicant and one representative from the objectors to the application will be invited to attend the Planning Working Group. Exceptionally the Committee may undertake a site visit. If the site visit is open to all members of the committee then those members who are not able to attend should carefully consider whether they will be in receipt of all relevant facts when the matter comes back before Committee for determination. Technical/professional consultees may exceptionally be asked to attend a site visit where it is anticipated that their presence on site will assist the Working Group or Committee gain knowledge of the proposal. If technical/professional consultees are requested to attend then reasons for that decision should be recorded.

Procedure on Site

- 9.3 A detailed explanation of the proposals, and a summary of the officers' report and recommendations, will be made by the planning officer. Councillors will then be given the opportunity to ask questions and to view the site and surroundings from all relevant vantage points.
- 9.4 Site visits will normally involve Planning Committee members and officers, except for any consultee whose attendance has been specifically requested by the Planning Committee (e.g. the County Highway Authority or an Environmental Health Officer) to assist their understanding of the proposals.
- 9.5 Councillors should keep together during site visits and not allow themselves to be addressed separately. No decisions are made at site visits although observations may be made to the Committee. An officer will be present to take a written note of the key planning issues and information obtained from the site visit, to be reported to the subsequent meeting of the Planning Committee.
- 9.6 The Head of Planning and Regeneration and the Member Services Manager will ensure that all correspondence in relation to site visits clearly identifies the purpose of a site inspection together with the format and conduct of the inspection, so that applicants/agents and interested parties are aware of it.

Informal Site Visits

- 9.7 There are advantages in Councillors making their own individual site visits to gain knowledge of the development proposal, the application site and its surroundings. In doing so, Councillors should observe sites from public vantage points (highways, rights of way or public open space) and should not enter onto private land without permission. Whilst on individual site visits, Councillors should as far as possible avoid engaging in discussion with applicants, objectors or other interested parties. This can lead to accusations of partiality if the views of one party only are heard. Where application sites are not visible without entering onto private land – for example, rear extensions or country houses in larger plots – officers will make an additional effort to provide appropriate visual information at Committee.

10.0 Review of Planning Decisions

- 10.1 Arrangements will be made for Councillors to visit a sample of implemented planning permissions annually, so that a regular review of the quality of planning decisions can be undertaken. This will include examples from a broad range of categories such as major and minor development, permitted departures, upheld appeals etc.

10.2 The outcome of this review will be reported to the Planning Committee and to the Scrutiny Committee and may lead to identification of possible amendments to existing policies or practice
