

A Destination Management Plan for Mid Devon Tourism

1.0 Background – Why a destination management plan?

Tourism is an important part of the District's economy, creating jobs and a sense of place for the area. The Council and key stakeholders would like to see a competitive and sustainable tourism sector, but to achieve this there needs to be an agreed way forward and co-ordination between partners. .

This is a partnership document as it is not possible for any one organisation to achieve this objective on its own. It, therefore, needs to be approved and accepted as a way forward by the whole sector.

A destination plan is the equivalent to a strategy and action plan for sustainable tourism. Destination management is a process, coordinating aspects of an area that contribute to a visitors experience and their needs as well as local residents, businesses and the environment. It identifies the future direction for the area in consultation with stakeholders from the tourism sector.

Purpose: To build a competitive and sustainable tourism industry for Mid Devon, which increases the contribution tourism makes to our local economy over the next 5 years.

Tourism is defined by the World Tourism Organisation as 'the activities of persons travelling or staying in places outside of their usual environment for not more than a year for leisure, businesses and other purposes. It includes visitor activities both 'same day' and where this involves an overnight stay'.

Sustainable tourism is committed to generating a low impact on the surrounding environment and community while generating income and employment for the local economy.

2.0 Economic Impact of Tourism - current situation

2.1 Mid Devon Economic Status – performance and impact

Tourism is recognised as an important driver of the District's economy. It contributes significantly through job creation, increased expenditure and income into local communities.

In 2015, Mid Devon attracted approximately 212,000 staying visits from UK and overseas visitors combined with approximately 1.59 million day visits, generating an estimated £101 million pounds worth of visitor spend in the local economy.

Approximately 1,500 full-time equivalent jobs within the district are tourism related, representing 5% of all employment in Mid Devon.

Table 2 from The Economic Impact of Mid Devon's Visitor Economy and Evidence base 2015.

The main reason why domestic visitors come to Mid Devon (day trips and staying) is for a holiday or leisure time. While for overseas visitors the main reason is to visit friends and relatives. This is significant as it means that having local connections is an important motivator even for overseas visitors.

3.0 Mid Devon's Tourism Offer

When assessing the number of businesses within the sector, accommodation and food and drink activities make up the majority of the industry. Travel and country specific activities such as conferences, exhibitions and fairs are the lowest.

The breakdown of accommodation by category is shown in the table below. There is a lower concentration of accommodation to the west of the District, especially around CREDITON.

Hotels	629 bed space
Guesthouse	66 bed space
Inns	119 bed space
B&B	557 bed space
Farms	88 bed space
Self-catering	170 units
Touring caravans / tents	378 pitches

Poor weather conditions can have a negative impact on campsite bookings. However, glamping type accommodation (yurt and tepees) have increased in popularity, providing high quality experiences for people looking to get closer to nature. This type of accommodation supports rural areas and requires advanced booking so providers are able to rely on numbers throughout the year.

The majority of the accommodation stock is in the countryside with very few town centre hotels or B&B's.

3.2 Attractions and local offer

The latest available attraction information for Mid Devon estimates that there are approximately 24 paid visitor attraction providers in the district offering a variety of entertainment for visitors. Attractions include things such as activity providers, boat trips, historic houses, castles, theme parks, vineyards, farms and animal collections. There is a lower concentration of paid attractions to the west of the district.

The local offer is much wider than attractions; the district's natural environment (the countryside - stunning views / landscape / valleys) and a rich cultural heritage makes Mid Devon a beautiful and interesting destination. Green infrastructure (footpaths, cycle routes), heritage sites, churches, quaint villages, 11 miles of the Grand Western Canal, listed buildings, conservation areas, access to Exmoor and the Blackdown Hills AONB, rivers & 200 country wildlife sites all contribute to the local offer. The area has a variety of food and drink establishments serving local produce which is a priority for visitors.

There has been a recent growth in the number of conference and event venues within the District, particularly wedding venues. These can offer both a venue for a day event, but increasingly offer accommodation as well for overnight / weekend events. There is also a strong country sports offer, with a number of fishing lakes and associated accommodation in the Culm Valley and Exmoor Fringe. clay pigeon and pheasant shoots.

4.0 Who comes to Mid Devon?

The findings from the 2016 visitor survey portray a positive and encouraging picture of Mid Devon as a tourism and leisure destination in the South West region.

- Mid Devon is predominantly a day visit destination, not only amongst day visitors from home but also amongst those visiting the area for the day from nearby accommodation bases outside of the district. The main visitor market for the district appears to be those people living within the immediate South West region.
- Mid Devon largely appeals to adult only groups with visitors falling into the middle (45-54 years) and older (55+ years) age groups.
- The average group size is 2.85 people
- The majority come to Mid Devon for leisure purposes and for visiting friends and family.
- Overnight visitors average length of visit are 4 nights
- Mid Devon attracts relatively affluent visitor market (ABC's)
- The district attracts a high proportion of repeat visitors across all visitor types and is likely to be largely due to the fact that visitors to the district appear to be relatively satisfied with the visitor experience and the tourism product on offer to them when making a visit.
- Main reason for their visit is to eat out (food and drink), followed by shopping, walking, visiting family attractions and enjoying the countryside

- Visitors use the internet during their visit to source information from google, Trip Advisor, Visit Devon and Heart of Devon. A high proportion likes to use a brochure, leaflet during their visit.
- The lowest satisfaction rates were for nightlife/evening entertainment and availability of public toilets.
- Standard questions are used to benchmark the overall satisfaction and enjoyment of a visit, for example visitors were asked the likeliness of re-visiting the area and 4.73 out of 5 (very high) would return.
- A similar benchmark is recorded through a recommendation score. Mid Devon's recommendation score was +42%, which is good but slightly lower when compared with the score for the county as a whole of +56%.
- Some quotes why people like it here: 'the countryside', 'a lot calmer and laid back', 'Atmosphere, scenery and peaceful', 'accessibility to coastlines in Devon', 'variety of things to do', 'friendliness', 'Weather, fresh air and wild flowers along the paths'.

5.0 Partnerships and Marketing

Currently Mid Devon is marketed and promoted under the Heart of Devon (HOD) Area Tourism Partnership (ATP) with Exeter, East Devon and Teignbridge. However, from January last year the HOD merged with Visit South Devon (VSD). Since this merger Mid Devon businesses are struggling to relate to VSD's strong coastal brand. Visit South Devon are currently looking to re-brand and incorporate the countryside. But it is not clear how many of the 32 Mid Devon businesses will re-new their membership with Visit South Devon in 2017.

Visit South Devon is now the key local Destination Marketing Organisation for Mid Devon, which is a key part of the official tourism marketing and promotion network that radiates down from Government via VisitEngland and populates Visit Devon's website.

Visit Devon has formed a new board, to develop Visit Devon as the 'go to' company for tourism and hospitality businesses located in Devon. The Community Interest Company will work on behalf of the tourism and hospitality industry to promote Devon within the UK and overseas to attract new and additional visitors to the county. It is early days for the company and there are no marketing packages available at present.

Mid Devon is under represented on both the HOD (under VSD) and Visit Devon's websites. Events can be promoted through the ATP's websites but there are no partnership campaigns taking place in Mid Devon at present.

Mid Devon Attractions Association is an important private sector led group for the area. Their objectives are a) to be a voice for Mid Devon and b) to promote the area by working in partnership on a number of projects and promotional campaigns e.g. identifying a brand for the area and creating a marketing and promotional strategy. MDDC is supporting the group to become an influential body with its own marketing and events programme and an organisation for securing external funding for future marketing campaigns.

Mid Devon District Council part funds the Tourist Information Centre which has created networks with accommodation and attraction providers, releasing a monthly e-bulletin to our businesses. The TIC keep the 'Explore Tiverton' website up to date which promotes the local events, accommodation and 'things to do'. Cullompton and Crediton do not have a similar website to promote their towns. There are no overall accommodation or food and drink partnerships in the area.

As it stands marketing and promotion for the area is done on an individual business bases, very little joint advertising campaigns / schemes have taken place with no clear leadership or coordination across the district and sectors. Mid Devon as an area is unknown and requires a clear brand to re-position it within the tourism market. There seems to be a concentration around what the area doesn't have e.g. coast / National Park rather than focusing on what the area does have to offer, creating one clear message which the sector adopts. A clear brand and unique selling points need to be identified to promote the area and re-position it as a competitive area to visit.

7.0 Current Trends

7.1 National Trends

A Strategic Framework for Tourism 2010-2020 (Visit England) states Tourism in the UK is set to grow by 5% year on year which would generate new demand with corresponding impact on jobs and economy (estimated 225,000 jobs).

However, the impact Brexit will have on the tourism economy is unknown. Changes to border controls may influence visitor's decisions inbound and outbound. It may result in a greater increase in staycations for domestic visitors, especially if the pound is weaker. The state of the pound will influence international visitor's decision to holiday here, making it good (if the pound is weak) or poor (if the pound is strong) value for money.

In 2015, British residents took 102.7 million overnight trips in England, totalling 300 million nights away from home, with an expenditure of £19.6 billion (a new high). £191 was spent per trip, and with an average trip length of 2.92 nights, the average spend per night was £65. The number of domestic trips was 11% higher than in 2014, and the amount spent increased by 8%, reaching an all-time high in nominal terms. Overseas trips to England increased by 5% compared to 2014 to £36.1 million and spend by 1% to £22.1 billion. During 2015, GB residents took a total of 1,525 million Tourism Day Visits to destinations in England, Scotland or Wales, falling by -4% compared to those taken in 2014 (1,585); and around £54 billion was spent during these trips which remained unchanged year-on-year (£53.8 billion in 2014) (South West Tourism Research 2016).

However, with over 50% of international visitor spend still in the capital, there is more to be done to rebalance the sector, boosting jobs and growth right across the country.

Visit England has also produced a 'Rural Tourism Action Plan'. The report aims to improve the potential of the rural tourism offer and bring benefits to local communities and economies. The report proposes the following to diversify and enhance rural tourism:

- Develop existing and new visitor activities and experiences that are less weather dependent, appeal to visitors throughout the year and reflect and support the local area (i.e. not imported in);
- Develop traditional and new low impact and low carbon products and experiences in rural areas informed by consumer trends and behaviours (e.g. walking, cycling, glamping, tepees, yurts, camping huts and shielings; slow tourism; outdoor concerts; museums and parks at night) and suited to local environments and communities; and
- Increase the promotion of England's rural offer and experiences by using new media and other marketing techniques to engage younger audiences.

7.2 Regional trends

The South West Region – 2015

In terms of UK staying visitors the South West witnessed increases of 5% in terms of trips, 7% for nights and 5% for spend. Overseas trips to the region increased by 2%, nights increased by 9% and spend by 3% compared to 2014. Day visits to the South West are estimated to have decreased by 2% and day visit spend increased by 2% compared to 2014. Visits to urban areas increased by 1% with expenditure increasing by 13%, visits to rural areas decreased by 8% with expenditure decreasing by 9% and visits to coastal areas remained at a similar level to 2014 although expenditure decreased by 10% (South West Tourism Research 2016).

The latest data shows Devon's staying visitors tend to spend within the typical seasonal months with a slight peak in May.

Devon - Estimated seasonality of staying visits

Devon is the most visited region in the South West for day and staying visits for domestic trips. However, Former Avon is significantly higher for overseas staying trips.

7.3 The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF)

The National Planning Policy Framework (NPPF) was published in March 2012 and states local plans must: “Support sustainable rural tourism and leisure developments that benefit businesses in rural areas, communities and visitors, and which respect the character of the countryside. This should include supporting the provision and expansion of tourist and visitor facilities in appropriate locations where identified needs are not met by existing facilities in rural service centres.” (Paragraph 28)

Mid Devon’s Local Plan states:

The Council will use planning and related powers to:

Support sustainable economic success (through)

- A good range of jobs in urban and rural areas
- Growth that respects Mid Devon’s relationship with Exeter and Taunton
- Profitable and expanding local businesses, attracting inward investment.
- Attractive, lively and successful town centres
- Tourism and leisure enterprises that benefit the whole district
- Recognition of the role of heritage as a tourism attraction¹

8.0 The Future for Tourism in Mid Devon

8.1 Working in partnership

Through effective partnerships we can achieve the following:

- Clear leadership and co-ordination
- Strive for quality
- Joint approach to target marketing and promotion

¹ Mid Devon Local Plan Review 2013-2033

A number of organisations have different roles and responsibility to grow tourism in Mid Devon. Partnerships need to be developed through businesses engagement to achieve the objectives of this plan and co-ordinate efforts.

Channels of engagement are needed for the area to promote and create projects, events, schemes, initiatives which can be promoted through the Area Tourism Partnerships.

8.2 Clear branding and a joint approach to marketing

- To create an identity for Mid Devon.
- The sector to adopt the branding and promote the same message
- Create a voice for each sector
- Identify joint promotional initiatives

The attractions association are progressing, securing external funding to achieve their objectives. The same model could be formed for the remaining tourism areas e.g. food and drink and accommodation which could feed into the ATP's and link with the other local sectors. Town teams are established in Cullompton and Crediton and a business forum in Tiverton but at present they don't feed into the ATP's.

Diagram of communication channels (groups) and promotional development links.

8.3 Creating a competitive product

- Improve the visitor experience
- Meet target segment needs
- Develop the local offer and create new initiatives / products which will meet segment needs

Visit England have identified five segmentation of domestic tourists based on different needs, attitudes and behaviours (Project Lion 2016).

The Mid Devon Visitor Survey 2016 reflects the profile of the Country-Loving Traditionalist.

Aspirational family fun can easily spend a day trip to the country or access the coast (North and South) / city from Mid Devon, therefore it is essential that we work closely with neighbouring cities to communicate the overall tourism offer in the area rather than all competing for footfall.

8.4 Trends

New types of domestic leisure tourism are emerging (Visit England – Domestic Leisure Tourism Trends for the Next Decade December 2013) which could have a positive impact on rural destinations, through Active and Health tourism as well as visiting friends and relatives.

Visiting Friends and Relatives (VFR) trips are turning into leisure ones. With more budget constraints, consumers are wishing to maximise their leisure time and capitalise on family occasions. As we live longer we create more family occasions to celebrate and create rich family experiences.

Health tourism (such as spa breaks) is driven by a generation of health conscious older people but also the rising perception of time pressures at work and home.

Active tourism is growing as a reaction to more sedentary lifestyles and people wanting to de-stress through adventure experiences.

8.4.1 International

In 2011 the International Passenger Survey (IPS) revealed that visitors from overseas undertook particular activities whilst in Britain, including going to the countryside and coast. International Passenger Survey figures show that Scotland, Wales, the South West and Yorkshire are most likely to see holiday visits involving visiting rural or coastal locations and walking.
